

MRS. STETSON ADMITS ERROR

SUBMITS TO JUDGMENT OF MRS. EDDY AND MOTHER CHURCH.

Edmondson Students to Follow Example and Give Full Adherence to the Parent Body—Sees She Was Wrong When She Thought She Was Right.

ROSTON, Nov. 16.—In a statement issued to the newspapers late to-night Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, the "admonished" leader of the New York Christian Science Church, admitted that she had been in the wrong in her controversy with the directors of the mother church.

The two days conference with the directors appears to have brought Mrs. Stetson to her knees, although she says that it was Mrs. Eddy's letter read to the members of the New York church yesterday that convinced her she was in error. The statement is as follows:

"Our beloved leader, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, has requested us all to unite with those in our church who are supporting the mother church directors. To-day I have received a copy of her letter addressed to the trustees of our church.

"For twenty-five years I have gladly obeyed her leading in every question. I have always found that by doing this I drew nearer to God. My students know that I have taught them to do likewise without questioning her wisdom; therefore they do not now need any word from me in addition to what our beloved leader has said to guide them in this hour.

"They will know that it is right for them to unite with those who supported the mother church directors in the judgment rendered against me.

"If myself have been obeying that judgment and I shall continue to do so. I shall furthermore obey my leader by uniting with those who felt it was right to condemn in the testimony.

"My leader's letter induces me to believe that I may have been wrong where I felt that I was absolutely right.

"For twenty-five years I have watched and prayed for guidance and strength in correcting every error revealed to me by God and by my leader or any of my brethren."

The directors of the mother church were in session practically the entire day. They got together in the great edifice before 9 o'clock this morning, and soon after that hour Mrs. Stetson arrived.

No one was seen to enter or leave the church until 2:20 o'clock this afternoon, when Messrs. McEllan, Dittmore and Stewart came out of a rear door, and twenty-five minutes later the first named man returned with Judge Smith, first reader of the local church.

There was no further interruption for the waiting reporters until 7 o'clock to-night, when the secret meeting adjourned.

When Mr. McEllan came out of the church this afternoon he was met by a group of reporters.

"I don't think you need stay around here any more to-day. We shall have nothing to give out to-day," he said.

Mr. McEllan and Mr. Dittmore were in much of a hurry as they walked down the street to take a car on Huntington avenue. They were smiling blandly at all the questions asked by the small army of newspaper men, and while at first they seemed to resent being snatched by the photographers they finally posed for them.

Mrs. Stetson left the Touraine shortly before 9 o'clock this morning for the mother church. She was accompanied by a woman, but not the same one as on yesterday, and presumably a stranger to Boston. Mrs. Stetson had taken the precaution to provide herself against the annoyance to which she had to submit yesterday by wearing a heavy blue veil. She showed no fatigue despite her long, wearying conference of yesterday.

About half an hour after Mrs. Stetson had been admitted to the mother church her attorney, Haynes Davis, rode up in a taxicab. He evidently had given the chauffeur directions to wait, for the latter made no move to go away, the presumption being that he did not intend to remain at the church for any length of time.

However, two hours elapsed and the operator of the machine apparently grew uneasy, for he alighted from his taxi and went up to the door of the church. After a few minutes delay a woman appeared and paid him his toll and he was discharged.

A few minutes later a thickset, round faced smiling man of middle age approached the door of the Christian Science Publication Building. He looked very much like the photographs of Virgil O. Strickler, first reader of the New York church and the representative there of the mother church in the battle with Mrs. Stetson.

There is some talk of a secret underground entrance to the church from the Publication Building across the street.

Important witnesses arrived and entered the Publication Building and the directors went into the building. It is presumed they reached the church by the same mysterious means by which they left it yesterday, when the reporters watching the doors to the church, they appeared from the Publication Building and were half a block away before discovered.

"It was learned to-day that through the instrumentality of George M. Ameridge, a Boston attorney, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Mary F. Ameridge of Lynn, Miss Hattie Martin has been dismissed from the mother church. The dismissal follows the efforts begun by Mr. Ameridge after his mother's death at Middleton a few weeks ago to have Miss Martin dismissed.

On November of last year Mr. Ameridge visited New York for the purpose of getting Miss Martin dismissed from the Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, and in this he was successful. In April of the present year Miss Martin was dropped. This action was necessary on the part of Mr. Ameridge before he could bring the matter before the mother church in Boston.

Since the death of his mother Mr. Ameridge has made extra efforts at the Boston end, and this morning he received notice from the officers of the mother church that Miss Martin had been dismissed.

At the time of the disappearance of Mrs. Ameridge from her home in August

WESTERN UNION IN NEW HANDS

GOULD STOCK SOLD TO AMERICAN TELEPHONE CO.

Sage and Morosini Stock Said to Have Gone With It—Postal Is the Largest Stockholder in Tel and Tel and There Is Expectation of One Grand Combine.

The passing of control of the Western Union Telegraph Company from the Goulds and their associates to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, foreshadowed by the events of some months past, was formally announced yesterday. Theodore N. Vail, president of the telephone company, said that his company had obtained a "substantial minority" of the stock of the Western Union. This was taken to be only a part of the truth. Absolute control of the Western Union, and that by stock purchase, was said by an authority to be the true condition. The same authority gave as his opinion that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company had purchased the holdings of George Gould and his associates, together with those of Mrs. Russell Sage and the stock owned by the late Giovanni P. Morosini, amounting in all to about 500,000 shares, valued at about $42,500,000.

Important changes are expected in the administration of the Western Union. It was rumored yesterday that William H. Baker, who was vice-president and general manager of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company for twenty years up to May, 1907, and who has been intimately connected with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company since that time, will succeed Col. Robert C. Clowry as general manager and possibly as president of the Western Union. Neither Col. Clowry nor Mr. Baker would say anything yesterday afternoon to substantiate the rumor. Mr. Gould was unwilling to say whether or not he expected to retire from the directorate upon which not only he but Edwin, Frank Jay and Howard Gould at present hold places. A competent authority estimates that the joint operation of the two companies will effect a saving of from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year.

The fact that Mr. Baker was spoken of as the possible successor to Col. Clowry led to conjectures as to the connection of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company with the deal. The Mackay Companies is the largest single stockholder in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and holds large blocks of stock in eight or nine of its subsidiaries. The Postal for some time has had an agreement with the telephone company whereby its messages are transmissible at congested periods over telephone wires. In some quarters the control of the Western Union by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was taken to be but the preliminary of a unification of the three companies into one immense corporation having a virtual monopoly of the telephone and telegraph business of the United States.

Edward J. Nally, vice-president and general manager of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, said that he had no knowledge of any such combination. He declared that no such step was likely to be taken at any time in the near future. Yet holdings of Western Union stock by the Mackay Companies have long been admitted, though the precise amount has been withheld.

President Vail's statement, issued yesterday at the offices of the company in New York, said that a substantial minority interest in the shares of the Western Union Telegraph Company had been obtained.

"From the very commencement of the telephone business," proceeded the statement, "it has been thought that a close cooperation—the making of one business the auxiliary to the other business—would give additional public service as well as result in large economies both to the public and to the companies.

"There is much to be obtained by the joint construction and maintenance of plant and by its common use to the greatest point of economy. The placing of the millions of telephone subscribers in close and reliable connection with the receiving and dispatching offices of the telegraph companies. While some provision for this exists after a manner to-day, a lack of harmony and cooperation between the companies and an inability to agree on methods of fixing responsibility have limited its utilization to a small degree.

Vail added that the combination of the two services would insure more satisfactory administration despite the distinct fields of operation.

"It seems," he said, "not only to be good policy but a duty to increase the service and advantages to the public by utilizing present untapped possibilities, and at the same time benefit property and increase revenue."

The substantial minority interest of which Mr. Vail spoke was said to have been acquired from George Gould. Mr. Gould at first was reticent about admitting the fact of the sale of the Gould holdings, but late in the afternoon he gave out this statement:

"It is a fact that we have sold a large part of our holdings in the Western Union Telegraph Company to the telephone company. I believe this will inure to the benefit both of the public and the Western Union stockholders, as the business of both can be handled more efficiently by a complement to one another, thus giving to the fullest extent prompt and satisfactory service to their patrons. They should be worked in harmony, which should be to the great advantage of the public as well as to the mutual interest of both companies."

Mr. Gould added that the reason which actuated him in the sale was the desire to have more time to devote to his Western properties. He was asked if he intended to withdraw from the directorate of the Western Union. He replied that the question involved too many uncertain quantities. He declined to say how many shares he sold or tell the price, and said that the amount of the Gould holdings was set at about 250,000 shares or about 25 per cent. of the total stock of the Western Union outstanding. LAST OF THE HOPE DIAMOND?

Starred Stone Said to Have Gone Down With Owner in La Seyne Wreck.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Nov. 17.—According to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Express it is reported that Habib, a wealthy Spaniard, owner of the famous Hope diamond, was one of the passengers on the French steamer La Seyne, which was sunk in collision with the steamer Onda in Rho Straits.

Habib, the story says, was drowned. It is said that he had the Hope diamond with him.

Despatches from Paris on June 21 last told of the sale there at auction of the Habib diamond collection, which included the famous Hope blue diamond, which was disposed of to a French dealer of the name of Roussau for the sum of $30,000. Habib was described in these despatches as a Turkish gentleman residing in Paris. The Express now says that this sale was subsequently annulled, but it does not account for Habib's change of nationality from Turkish to Spanish.

The Hope diamond figures in the popular belief as an unlucky stone. It is said to bring death or disaster to every one who owns it. Those who believe that it is a stone that was lost from the French crown jewels placed its first exhibition of sinister influence in the time of Louis XVI., who had his head chopped off, and whose ancestor, Louis XIV., purchased it from Tavernier, "the King's Jeweller."

Then follows a series of jewel dealers and possessors of the stone, until it fell into the hands of the English banker, Henry Thomas Hope, who bought it early in the nineteenth century.

It went to his grandson, Lord Francis Hope, and for the troubles that followed his marriage to May Yoh, the music hall singer, and for the financial difficulties that came to him soon after the Hope diamond was held responsible.

Joseph Frankel's Sons company of Philadelphia then bought the stone and the price was estimated at $145,000. This firm got into financial straits in 1908 and its value was said to be a quarter of a million and for their losses the possession of the stone again was blamed.

A BATTLESHIP OF CONCRETE.

One Is on El Fraile Island, One of Those at the Mouth of Manila Bay.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—One of the most unusual defensive works in the world has been erected by the War Department on El Fraile Island, one of the four islands which form a chain across the mouth of Manila Bay. All these islands have been strongly fortified in order to prevent a foreign fleet from entering the bay. On El Fraile Island has been built a fixed battleship of concrete having two steel turrets in each of which are mounted two 14 inch guns. These turrets can be trained in any direction by the gun crew inside.

The original plan for the fortification of El Fraile contemplated the enlargement of the island, which is small and narrow, and the establishment of an ordinary fort. This plan, however, was abandoned in favor of the concrete battleship which has been practically completed. The 14 inch guns mounted in turrets on El Fraile are operated by the general fire control station on Corregidor Island, where the principal fortifications of the mouth of the bay are located.

The fortifications on Corregidor Island are practically completed. The guns mounted there comprise six 12 inch, one 10 inch and four 8 inch guns. In addition there are twelve 12 inch mortars and a submarine mine equipment for mining the two channels to Manila Bay. Corregidor Island is between the two channels, and the fortification works on Corregidor have the additional advantage of a natural elevation of about 900 feet.

The other islands forming the chain across the entrance to Manila Bay are Carabao, Caballo, and El Fraile. On Carabao Island two 14 inch guns and eight 12 inch mortars have been put. On Caballo Island are two 15 inch guns, two 6 inch guns and complete mine plant for mining the adjoining channel.

The artificial ship on El Fraile Island will be about 100 feet wide and 1,200 feet long.

FOUND ON TROLLEY TRACK.

Girl Badly Hurt, but Family Refuse to Let Hospital Doctor Examine Her.

Cecilia Kahn, a seventeen-year-old schoolgirl who lives at 941 Tiffany street, The Bronx, was found last night lying on a trolley track at Westchester avenue and Tiffany street, a block and a half from her home. Her face and body were bruised and there was deep cut over her right eye. She had not lost consciousness.

The motorman stopped his car a few feet from her. Richard Ficke of 1881 Taylor avenue happened to be passing and he ran in to the street and helped the motorman lift her to the curb. When an ambulance came from Lebanon Hospital she refused that she wanted to be taken to her own physician. From a cursory examination Dr. Gotterlieb from Lebanon thought that her skull might have been fractured. The police assigned to the case were told by the girl's family that they could not explain how she was hurt.

A PROBLEM FOR THE COURT.

Mrs. Costello Presents It and Secures an Adjournment.

Mrs. Bartholomew Costello of 180 Tenth avenue had a problem for the Court of Sessions yesterday, when she appeared in answer to the summons of the Gerry society for her husband to show cause why he had not paid $52 due the city for support of his five children in city institutions.

Costello is a watchman. He has seven children, and the five that were formerly in institutions are now at home. Mrs. Costello addressed the court in a voice that somewhat startled the Justices.

"My husband gets only $12 a week, your Honor, now tell me how in the name of heaven a man getting $12 a week can support himself and wife and seven children and pay the Gerry society $52," she said. "He might as well try to buy Manhattan Island, and him with not a dime in his pocket."

Afterward in conversation Justice Mayo said, "I'd rather she would tell me to try to figure it out myself."

The case was put off until December 21.

PEERS WILL REJECT BUDGET

LORD LANSDOWNE SERVES FORMAL NOTICE OF MOTION.

House of Lords Will Decline to Consent to Finance Scheme Without Assent of the Country—Big Majority Certain—Election Campaign Opens.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Nov. 16.—In the House of Lords this evening the Marquis of Lansdowne, leader of the Opposition, gave notice of his intention to move an amendment on November 22 rejecting the second reading of the budget.

Lord Lansdowne will ask the House to declare that "this House is not justified in giving its assent to this bill until it has been submitted to the judgment of the country."

Although the action of Lord Lansdowne as leader of the Unionist party seals the fate of the budget the announcement of his formal notice created little surprise in political circles. It has been generally understood for several weeks that the Opposition leaders in the House of Lords intended to take action of this sort.

With the formal announcement of Lord Lansdowne's motion the election campaign may be said to have begun. The Unionists will open operations in Lancashire, whose attitude on any great political question has notorious influence on the fate thereof. Ex-Prime Minister Balfour will address a meeting in Manchester to-morrow, preaching, by the irony of circumstances, in a free trade hall the doctrine of tariff reform.

Various party gatherings will surround his visit, the occasion being the annual conference of the Conservative associations.

The Liberals, as a counterblast to these demonstrations, will send Winston Churchill, President of the Board of Trade, to address a series of meetings in Lancashire and Cheshire early in December. Mr. Churchill has sent a long manifesto to the Liberals of these counties fiercely denouncing the House of Lords and warning them of the evils of tariff reform.

The Unionists have issued an urgent whip to the Peers for November 22, when Lord Lansdowne will move that the House of Lords withhold assent from the budget, and the majority for the motion will of course be overwhelming. Exactly how the Government will act is not yet known. Plans were undoubtedly discussed at the meeting of the Cabinet to-day, which was somewhat prolonged.

The party controversy daily grows more bitter. The Liberal newspapers print violent editorials expressing furious indignation at the House of Lords for daring to sedulously declare war on the House of Commons and the people. The Opposition press heartily commends the Lords for their action in appealing to the judgment of the nation against the tyrannical majority in the House of Commons.

CATCH CLEVER WOMAN THIEF.

She Had Broken Department Stores Out of Over $1,000.

Emma Tothe, an attractive young woman who lives at the Union Square Hotel, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the Eastern Boulevard at Pelham road in The Bronx on a charge of driving her automobile at a rate of 30 miles an hour. Mr. Belmont was on his way from Throg's Neck to New York and was accompanied by a friend and a mechanic. Motorcycle Policeman Remington picked up the runaway at Middletown road and overtook it after a chase.

Mr. Belmont was taken to the Westchester police station, where he said she was 21 years old, a banker, living at 41 East Thirty-fourth street. He gave the owner of the machine as August Belmont of 23 Nassau street. He deposited $100 cash bail and drove on.

NEWSPAPERS IN VINCI BUST.

Part of Filling, but Dr. Bode Has a Reason—Seller Willing to Refund.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The further X-ray examination of the alleged Da Vinci bust lately purchased in England by Dr. Bode for $20,000 for the Kaiser Friedrich Museum here, revealed nothing tending to settle the controversy regarding its actual make.

Dr. Bode has made a long statement concerning the construction of the bust as shown by the X-rays and the filling of the pedestal. The latter includes scraps of printed paper of comparatively modern date, but Dr. Bode says these were inserted when the pedestal was restored.

It is stated that Mr. Marks, who sold the bust to Dr. Bode, offered to take it back and refund the price if it proved not to be the work of Da Vinci.

BIGGER PIE THAN TAFTS.

Judge Gaynor to Get a Seven Footer From the Striking Bakers.

The striking pie bakers decided yesterday to build a bigger mince pie than the one which the striking pie salesmen are to present to President Taft. A hitch came when the question arose as to whom it was to be presented.

"Why not give it to Mayor-elect Gaynor?" said one of the strikers.

The bakers agreed. After the meeting a member of the executive board said:

"The order for the pie has been given and deposit made to insure despatch. The pie will be circular and will be seven feet in diameter, a foot larger than the one the pie salesmen are sending to the President. Our pie will be delivered to Judge Gaynor with the compliments of our union at his home in St. James, L. I., on the forenoon of Thanksgiving Day."

A Newark union firm will bake the Taft mince pie. One of the projectors when he heard of the Gaynor pastry said: "There is nothing to prevent us from making our pie a foot or two feet more in diameter than was originally intended."

Want Van Am as Dean Emeritus.

The undergraduates of Columbia College and the Columbia schools of science began yesterday the preparation of a monster petition for the appointment of Prof. John Howard Van Amringe, the retiring dean of the college, as dean emeritus.

The petition was prepared on rolls of parchment and more than five hundred names were signed to it yesterday. It is expected that by Friday it will contain 1,500.

HUNTER DROPPED INTO WELL.

Gun Went Off as He Fell, but He Loaded and Fired and Got Help.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Ephraim Sheppard of Pittstown was badly injured while hunting with a party of friends near Mount Salem. He saw a rabbit run into a clump of bushes and followed it. In the underbrush were some rails which covered a well that had long been forgotten. The covering broke under Sheppard's weight and he fell sixty feet to the bottom. In his fall Sheppard's hip was crushed, one leg and one foot were broken and he was otherwise injured.

Sheppard's gun went off twice during his fall, but he hung on to it. Owing to the drought there was no water in the well or he would have been drowned. Sheppard did not lose consciousness and he kept firing his gun from the bottom of the well. His companions, unaware of his plight, were attracted to the pit by the shooting. Asa Sheppard, his brother, climbed down the rough walled sides of the well to where the injured man lay. Ropes were secured and both men were drawn to the surface. Sheppard was taken to a Newark hospital.

AGAINST WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Philadelphia Women Form an Anti-Vote Club and Begin Campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—The slogan "No Votes for Women" was sounded to-day in this city.

The Pennsylvania Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage this afternoon adopted its constitution and by-laws and began a campaign to prevent the enfranchisement of women. The meeting was attended by more than 100 women who stand for the old traditions of home life and who resent the incursion of their sex into politics.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. G. Gardner Cassatt and was addressed by Dean Agnes Irwin of Radcliffe College.

"We are opposed to suffrage on logical, economic, social and political grounds," said Mrs. Cassatt. "We do not believe that women want to vote. We do not believe that the vote would improve the political situation, and we are quite sure that woman's first duty is to her home, her children and her husband."

GAMBLER WANTED TO PAY BACK.

Orders Executor of Will to Reimburse Every One Who Ever Lost to Him.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16.—One of the strangest wills ever made here came to light when the last testament of George Brown, Jr., noted as a gambler and race-horse man, was filed in the Probate Court.

"It is my desire as far as possible," the will reads, "to repay every poor man, woman or child, any money which I may have won from him by gambling during my lifetime, and I direct my executor to make efforts to learn their names and reimburse them to the full amount with interest from the day the money was won."

Another strange provision of the will is for a tombstone to be erected above the testator and his wife which will bear only their given names, omitting the name "Brown."

RAYMOND BELMONT ARRESTED.

For Driving His Auto, According to Police Timing, at 30 Miles an Hour.

Raymond Belmont, a son of August Belmont, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the Eastern Boulevard at Pelham road in The Bronx on a charge of driving his automobile at a rate of 30 miles an hour. Mr. Belmont was on his way from Throg's Neck to New York and was accompanied by a friend and a mechanic.
